An update from Hall Financial Advisors

Your team at Hall Financial Advisors wants to send you a brief update on how we are currently conducting business. We are keenly focused on current events and managing the assets you have entrusted with us. While our entire team has been operating at full capacity the last few weeks, we are adhering to the CDC and the state's guidelines. We are practicing the recommended social distancing and sanitization procedures. During the height of the pandemic, we were fully functioning but with a limited number of the team members working in our offices. Fortunately, we have the ability to work remotely and many on our team did so for months. It has been nice to get everyone back together with safety and health being high priority. We are offering face to face client meetings, Zoom calls, FaceTime and phone calls to continue servicing clients in the manner in which you expect and deserve. We have made the necessary adjustments in our offices laid out by the CDC. We want to be sure to let you know we are available for you and welcome your call to schedule a meeting using any of the meeting methods previously mentioned. The choice is a personal decision on how you would prefer to communicate with Hall Financial Advisors. We will continue to review the situation month by month and adapt to any changes recommended by the CDC and state governments.

At this point, we have seen a nice recovery in the markets since the March lows. The team at Hall Financial Advisors has been working very hard to navigate through these uncertain times. We are proud of your investment portfolios and we will continue to review the situation closely. Most of the U.S. has started the reopening process. There are still many headwinds to navigate before we see a full recovery. Currently, there is not a vaccine yet for Covid-19, tensions with China continue to be a concern, there is unfortunate social and political unrest throughout our great Nation, and unemployment continues to be at record levels. The markets have continued to climb higher and we are seeing positive signs of life in the economy. Your team at Hall Financial Advisors is extremely focused on these issues and will continue to do our very best for you.

We pride ourselves in our service. This will not change. We will continue to reach out to schedule periodic reviews as we always have. Please feel free to contact us should you have questions or concerns. We will keep you and our great Nation in our thoughts and prayers.

We wish everyone a safe, healthy, and enjoyable summer.

Respectfully,
*Chris Hall, Managing Principal,
and your team at Hall Financial Advisors*
